| Game Name | Bang |
| Game Type | Indoor |
| Number of People/Teams | Any |
| Ideal Age Range | Any Age |
| Ideal Game Time | Day time |
| Average Duration | 10 minutes or less |
| Equipment Needed | None |
| Playing Instructions | All players form a circle, facing inwards. The person running the game stands in the middle. This person calls a name or points at someone, who in return must duck. The players to either side of the person called, upon hearing his name, must turn towards him with their fingers pointed into a gun, and shout "Bang!" If the person called failed to duck quickly enough, he has just been shot, and is eliminated from the game. If he ducks to safety, but one player shouts "Bang!" faster than the other, the slower player is eliminated. If he ducks to safety, and both players shout at the same time, all three are safe and nobody is eliminated. If any player in the circle makes the mistake of ducking or shooting at the wrong time, they are eliminated. The game maker continues shouting names, as quickly as possible until only two players remain in the game. The two remaining players stand back to back in the style of a duel. The game maker starts calling names of anyone in the room. If the name is called does not belong to either of the duelists, both duelists take a step forward (stepping away from one another). If the name of one of the two duelists is called, both must spin around and aim a "Bang!" at the other. The game maker decides on a winner, or if it is too close to call has the duelists play the finale again. |
